

Abstract

A battery pack includes overcurrent limiting transistors and respective sensors in proximity to battery cell and the transistors. A CPU in the battery pack receives temperature signals from the sensors and selects an action to control temperature based on the temperature signals.

JP9 2000 0347